ANSCO PROFESSIONAL MOTION PICTURE FILMS

● Why the ever-increasing popularity of these Ansco products?

Simply a matter of *un*common sense. Working with Ansco, movie producers can rely on a corporate integrity which has highlighted photographic progress ever since 1842.

Today, they find the quality they seek in every Ansco Professional Motion Picture Product. Quality safeguarded and enhanced by research facilities second to none.

And with this, advancements in color photography brought to brilliant reality through the farsighted skills of Ansco scientists.

So, whether you desire an unsurpassed original . . . or a sparkling print . . . why not work with a finer Ansco film?

Your skill . . . and your reputation . . . deserve the best!

Complement your skill with these fine Ansco Films

● ANSCO 16mm DUPLICATING COLOR FILM . . . Type 238.

● ANSCO 35mm COLOR RELEASE POSITIVE . . . Type 849.

● ANSCOCHROME 35mm TYPES 531 (daylight) AND 532 (tungsten) . . . for color slide and strip masters.

Ansco . . . the finest compliment you can pay your skill!

FOREWORD

A PRODUCER, a director, a player, a writer and all others engaged in the making of motion pictures are judged on the basis of performance.

This is no less true of a reference volume, whether in the area of the motion picture or in any other field of business endeavor.

We of THE FILM DAILY take a certain natural and honest pride in the fact that the Year Book of Motion Pictures has an unbroken and unapproached record of performance since the first volume was published way back in 1918.

It, of course, is because of that steadily maintained record that this, the 40th anniversary edition, now goes around the world to serve not only the American industry, but the international industry as well.

Which is to say that the Year Book has thrived, ever keeping pace with the motion picture's development, because it has provided the infinite variety and wealth of information that the business-art requires.

And it will continue to so perform unendingly through the next 40 years and more.

Again it is the editor-in-chief's privilege to acknowledge, with gratitude, the cooperation and assistance freely given by a brilliant staff of collaborators and contributors. That the Year Book is the volume it is is due in no small measure to them.

NATIONAL PROJECTOR CARBONS

bring out exciting realism!

"National" carbon arcs match the sun's color balance. That means your audience can enjoy all the realism Hollywood puts on film. Deep colors come to life. Wide, wide screens show sharpness in every detail. For drive-ins, life-like images travel hundreds of feet. Indoors, picture brightness permits adequate house lighting.

These slower burning "National" Projector Carbons help cut operating costs: "Suprex" 7mm, 8mm, and 9mm carbons — 10mm, 11mm and 13.6mm High Intensity Carbons.

"National", "Suprex" and "Union Carbide" are trade-marks of Union Carbide Corporation

FIFTY MILLION DOLLARS CAN'T BE WRONG!

Money talks...and right now it's saying that 67,859,000 persons spent $51,234,000 to attend motion picture theatres during the month of October 1957 because they were motivated by trailers to see the feature attractions!*

For every $1,000 now spent in theatre admissions, $429 is directly influenced by the trailer!* That's close to 43 cents out of every dollar...and that makes trailers the undisputed box office leader — — by a wide, wide margin — — in yielding the greatest return at the least advertising cost.

* From the Movie Market Trends, Issue 88, dated Dec. 2, 1957. Figures were compiled nationally by Sindlinger & Co. for a group of its nationwide theatre clients to determine the impact of trailers on ticket sales. Copies available on request.

FILMS, FREEDOM AND FOREIGN AID

By ERIC JOHNSTON

President, Motion Picture Association of America

THE FILM DAILY YEAR BOOK is an indispensable handbook of our industry. Who in our business doesn't turn to it almost daily for information, facts and figures, for trends and statistics, which affect our mutual enterprise?

Ordinarily, in contributing a message for 1958, I would speak of our industry—its problems and its promise for the future.

JOHNSTON

But this year, instead, I would like to take up a topic that may at first seem remote from the motion picture business. I want to set down a few thoughts about our country's programs for assisting the economically underdeveloped nations of the free world.

To my mind, this is not a matter to be left just to Washington — nor a subject that we ourselves can put aside and ignore. It is a matter that concerns all American businessmen. It is of direct and especial concern to all members of our industry. For we are interested in, dependent upon, and committed to the development of foreign markets for our survival. This includes all of us—producers, distributors, exhibitors. I want to explain why.

In 1957 the Soviet Russians made the most durable of headlines by shooting a missile into the sky that shook the world. They are now engaged in firing other missiles that can shake the world even more. These are their economic guided missiles. Of all weapons in the Soviet arsenal, they are to my mind perhaps the most dangerous—because they are unspectacular and little noticed by us.

The missile of metal and movable parts can put satellites into the sky. The missile of economics could reduce free world nations into satellites of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics.

The Soviet's new economic rocketry is aimed directly at the independent nations of Asia, Africa and the Middle East. It is aimed indirectly at dividing the western alliance of nations. It is amied ultimately at smashing the United States of America.

I would like to make just three points about the new Soviet economic offensive and why it concerns us.

First, I think we must recognize that the Soviet's economic challenge is not mere boasting by a Khrushchev from the Moscow cocktail circuit. Beginning in 1955, the Soviets have undertaken a colossal campaign to penetrate and undermine the free world's economy. They have already put up $1.8 billion in this effort and they are planning to step up their campaign.

Second, the Soviet master strategists base their campaign on what they believe is our most vulnerable point—that people in a democracy can respond only to sudden dramatic emergencies. They believe that the great weakness of the United States is freedom itself, the lack of total authority at the top, the inability to act deliberately, patiently, forcefully over long periods of time.

They know we will react instantly to any sudden military breakthrough, whether by Soviet troops or technology. They think we will not react in time to a long-range and undramatic economic breakthrough.

Third, our success in long-range economic assistance to underdeveloped nations in the free world depends on public awareness and support. The President and leaders of both our political parties have told us repeatedly that the free world's economic strength is no less vital to us than its military strength. Our weakness in this struggle is not in Washington, but throughout the country.

Now how does this concern our industry especially . . . our business of making motion pictures?

It concerns us because our industry, more than any other in the communications business, has broken through the crust of centuries to show the newly-freed nations the picture and the symbol of American freedom. Our films show these new countries, now vulnerable to Soviet penetration, that there is a basis for hope and economic growth through free institutions. To these countries, the motion picture presents the American dream.

YEAR OF CHALLENGE

A Close-up of the Industry in 1957

By CHESTER B. BAHN
Editor, THE FILM DAILY

FOR THE AMERICAN motion picture industry, the year 1937 was one of challenge. Indeed, perhaps never before in its long and proud history was it confronted in any 12-month period with so many serious challenges. How they were met, and the degree of success of the meeting, is reflected in this objective, evaluating chronicle covering industry developments both at home and abroad.

I
Corporate: Changes and Stresses

● THESE WERE the outstanding developments in the corporate area in 1957:

1. Loew's management, led by President Joseph R. Vogel, in July moved for a showdown with the Joseph Tomlinson and Stanley Meyer bloc on the board of directors and on Oct. 15 turned back the bloc's attempt to capture control through a proxy fight at a special stockholders' meeting. Identified as the Tomlinson-Meyer strategist was Louis B. Mayer, once a power in the company and long the production head of M-G-M. Mayer was to die before October ended.

2. United Artists became a publicly owned company in late April after 38 years' existence as a privately owned corporation, and thereafter entered upon a program of expansion and diversification embracing television, records and music publishing. The way was opened also for participation in legitimate production.

3. RKO Radio discontinued domestic distribution, turning over its current pictures and 11 others unreleased to Universal Pictures on Feb. 1. RKO Teleradio also late in the year sold both RKO Radio studios to Desilu for $6,000,000, but did not wholly withdraw from production. It joined with Warners to make "The Naked and the Dead" in Panama, and announced plans to finance foreign production, primarily to keep its profitable overseas distribution system operating. It did however dispose of its Spanish distributing subsidiary to Spanish interests, to the emphatic dismay of the MPEA which, for more than two years, had maintained an embargo on the shipment of member company product to that country.

● COMPANY UNEASINESS caused by gathering economic storm clouds grew in intensity as the year progressed. The storm broke in mid-October when Warners announced a streamlining operation. Most seriously affected immediately was the advertising, publicity and exploitation department; at the year-end Gilbert Golden, advertising manager, shifted his base to the studio.

While other companies subsequently found some degree of streamlining necessary, the greatest personnel shrinkage was at Universal and Metro. The former brought studio operating virtually to a standstill, pending the recoup of its heavy production investment in some 30-odd pictures. At Metro, the greatest personnel reduction was in sales and advertising-publicity-exploitation.

● AMONG MAJOR film and theater companies, these were headline-making developments not covered in other sections:

Allied Artists: The company's opposition in February was sufficient to block a proposed consolidation of United Kingdom distribution by Warner Bros. and Associated British. In May, it acquired its exchanges in Albany and Buffalo from Harry Berkson and Nate Dickman. In June, Alfred Crown resigned as vice-president to join Morris Helprin in the formation of Barbizon Prods. Corp. Harold Mirisch, vice-president, and Walter Mirisch, executive producer, resigned from the company, effective Aug. 31, and subsequently signed a releasing contract with United Artists. In early October, Edwin J. Smith resigned as vice-president of Allied Artists International; Ben Schwalb was elected assistant secretary of Allied Artists Prods.

American Broadcasting-Paramount Theatres: The March of Dimes presented its 1956 Humanitarian Award to President Leonard H. Goldenson in February. In early March, AB-PT completed its theatre divestiture program under the Paramount consent judgment, leaving the theatre division with 550 houses after disposing of an interest in nearly 800 others throughout the U.S. On April 18, David B. Wallerstein was elected president of its Chicago theatre subsidiary, Balaban & Katz, to succeed the late John Balaban. In early May, Larry Clement joined the company as an assistant treasurer and comptroller. Later in the month, it was announced that A. H. Blank would retire on July 1 as head of another subsidiary, Tri-States Theatre Corp. On July 25, Herbert B. Lazarus, already serving as vice-president and general counsel, was elected secretary of the corporation. On Dec. 9, Lazarus suddenly resigned all his posts and left the company.

Columbia: Appointment of Morris Goodman as sales manager of Columbia Pictures International was announced on Jan. 29. On March 26, Columbia disclosed the establishment of a new division to distribute a minimum of 20 new Mexican films in the U.S. On April 14, it was announced that Columbia and Warwick Prods. of Great Britain had extended their distribution arrangement for two years. On July 16, President Harry Cohn assigned new duties in areas of responsibility to six principal executives. On July 29, Mortimer Wormser was elected a vice-president and Bernard Birnbaum assistant treasurer of the corporation. Appointment of Robert F. Ferguson to succeed Howard Le Sieur as director of advertising, publicity and exploitation came on Aug. 11. Designation of Harry Takiff as vice-president of Columbia Pictures Realty Corp. was disclosed on Sept. 9. On Nov. 11, it was announced that Louis Astor, home office sales executive, would go on a consultative basis after Dec. 31. Election of Bernard E. Zeeman as vice-president and treasurer of Columbia Pictures International was discolsed the same day.

Loew's: President Vogel on Jan. 29 announced the company was entering the commercial and industrial film field through a new department headed by Virgil E. Ellsworth, former president of Mercury International Pictures. On Feb. 19, appointment of Richard A. Harper as general sales manager for M-G-M-TV was announced. At the annual stockholders' meeting on Feb. 28, Vogel advised that the company would expand in the independent production field. On March 17, Vogel disclosed that henceforth all purchasing in every segment of the company would be on a competitive bidding basis. Charles C. Moskowitz on March 25 announced his retirement as vice-president and treasurer, effective at the termination of his contract in March, 1958.

Loew's board on March 28 designated a new four-man executive committee headed by Ogden L. Reid, editor of the N. Y. Herald Tribune. On April 11, The Film Daily reported a move by Calcon Inc. to acquire control of Loew's. On April 17, it was announced the company would end its short subject department following release of new films. On May 5, it was disclosed the company had engaged Robert Heller and Associates, of Cleveland, to make a management study.

President Vogel told the N. Y. Society of Security Analysts on May 23 that Loew's will be ready to participate in toll TV "when and if we become convinced that it can adequately contribute to our overall operations." At the same time he estimated that the leasing of Loew's pre-1948 features to TV will bring a revenue of $60 millions over the seven-year period covered by the licenses.

On July 22 the struggle for control of the company reached the showdown stage with Vogel taking initiative. Two days later, The Film Daily exclusively reported that Robert H. O'Brien, financial vice president, secretary and director of AB-PT, would resign to join Loew's as vice president and treasurer. There was immediate confirmation from Vogel that O'Brien would succeed Moskowitz. Fred F. Florence resigned on July 29 as a Loew's director, strengthening Vogel's stand. And the same day Robert Heller and Associates, in a second leter to the Loew's board, backed away from an earlier recommendation that Vogel be replaced. On July 30 the control fight headed for the courts as five dissident directors in a rump session elected Louis B. Mayer and Samuel Briskin to the board, designated Stanley Meyer and Joseph Tomlinson to fill two vacancies on the executive committee and adopted a resolution that the committee is "suspended" and its authority "withdrawn for the time being . . ." until the board fills its remaining vacancies or names a full executive committee. In Hollywood, Vogel branded the rump meeting illegal and announced the election of George Killian as chairman of the executive committee at the latter's Coast meeting.

Dostoievsky's

Tomlinson on July 31 filed suit in Delaware Court of Chancery for a declaration that the rump board meeting and the election of Mayer and Briskin as directors was valid. On Aug. 6, Vogel completed a Loew's board slate with eight nominees and on the 11th opened a fight for proxies. On the same day, a Loew's cross-complaint attacking the eligibility of Briskin to serve as director of Loew's was tiled in the Delaware court. On Aug. 12 in New York Supreme Court Justice Morris Spector issued a temporary injunction restraining any interference with a special Loew's stockholders' meeting set for Sept. 12. On the 14th, Loew's stockholders formed a protective committee headed by Harry Brandt to support the Vogel management.

Chancellor Collins J. Seitz ruled in Wilmington on Aug. 26 that Mayer and Briskin had been invalidly elected and enjoined them from acting as directors. Three days later, the Chancellor turned down a Mayer-Briskin re-argument motion. On Sept. 2 Mayer and Briskin appealed the ruling to the Delaware State Supreme Court.

The Loew's special stockholders' meeting after a brief session was adjourned on Sept. 12 to Oct. 15. In Wilmington, on Sept. 19, Chancellor Seitz refused to block the Oct. 15 meeting but enjoined Loew's from recognizing or counting any proxies held by the Vogel group or others to the extent that such proxies purport to grant authority to vote for the removal of Tomlinson and Myers as directors. On the 24th, Tomlinson filed suit in Delaware Federal District Court over Loew's proxy solicitations. On the 26th in a formal statement, Tomlinson denied that he sought Loew's control or to hold a company office. At the Oct. 15 meeting, Vogel won a smashing victory.

Federal Judge Edmond L. Palmieri in New York on Oct. 29 set Jan. 15 as the "tentative" date in the final hearing in the six-year effort to comply with the consent decree divorcing Loew's theatrical from production-distribution activities.

Loew's board on Oct. 30 for the first time in the company's 33-year history passed dividends for the first time and second quarters to permit the investment in production of an estimated $2½ million-plus thus conserved.

Election of Jason Rabinowitz as assistant treasurer of Loew's was announced Nov. 5. And on the 20th president Arthur M. Loew of Loew's International resigned, effective Dec. 31, with Morton A. Spring named his successor. On Nov. 26 Justice A. Dayton Oliphant was elected to the board of Loew's Theatres subsidiaries to succeed the late Allan A. Melhado by order of Federal Judge Palmieri.

Resignation of Charles M. Reagan as vice-president and general sales manager of Loew's was announced Dec. 1. Named as his successor in the latter post was John P. Byrne. Announcement that M-G-M Records had been split into two divisions came the same day.

Election of Maurice "Red" Silverstein as vice-president of Loew's International came on Dec. 10. On the 16th, promotion of Burtus Bishop, Jr. to assistant general sales manager for Metro was announced. The following day Marvin Schenck resigned as vice-president of Loew's and as M-G-M Studio executive.

On Dec. 19, Vice Chancellor William Marvel in Delaware Chancery court dissolved a restraining order against the payment by Loew's of more than $600,000 in legal fees and other expenses in the proxy fight. Such contests are hardly cheap.

National Theatres: President Elmer C. Rhoden, on Feb. 19, told the company's stockholders that National Theatres will provide $2 million financing for a wholly owned subsidiary to finance independent producers. On April 2, it was announced that National Theatres would diversify through National Film Investments, Inc., a new subsidiary.

Paramount: The company's Sunset Studio disclosed on Jan. 20 that it had leased the Conejo Ranch at Thousand Oaks, Calif., and announced development plans. The following day, Union Oil Co. announced a deal with Paramount for oil-drilling rights at the Paramount studio. Disclosure came the next day that Paramount would discontinue its long established newsreels on Feb. 15 but would continue to operate its New York laboratory. Twenty-four hours later, came the complementing announcement that British Paramount News would be discontinued and the Olympic Laboratory in England sold to the Rank interests. In mid-February Paramount announced that an affiliated company would be organized to expand the N. Y. laboratory.

The company, on April 18, completed the acquisition of Dot Records, Inc., with the delivery of 54,000 shares of Paramount common to Dot's stockholders. On May 13 Randy Wood, of Dot, was elected a Paramount vice-president.

Election of George Weltner as Paramount vice-president in charge of worldwide distribution came on July 14. On Aug. 14 Borge Hansen-Moller was elected to the board of Chromatic Television Laboratories, a Paramount subsidiary, and was named chairman of its executive committee. James E. Perkins was elected president of Paramount International Films Dec. 26.

Rank Film Distributors of America: President Kenneth Hargreaves on Feb. 19 announced that the company would open nine district branches and five additional branch offices in April. Hargreaves further disclosed that the J. Arthur Rank Republic: Sale of Republic's building in London to Warwick Prods., was disclosed on Jan. 13. President Herbert J. Yates, on Feb. 24, advised stockholders the company expected to cease direct operation of its foreign distribution system by July.

RKO Teleradio Pictures: Thomas F. O'Neil on Jan. 24 denied that Universal's takeover of RKO Radio's domestic distribution constituted liquidation of that division, contending actually it would serve to pour more dollars into production. On March 14, it was announced that RKO Radio interest in the Churubusco Studios in Mexico had been sold to the studio company for $800,000. RKO Teleradio on July 25 sold the Mutual Broadcasting System to a group of Pacific Coast broadcasters and businessmen.

On Nov. 12 Ben Grimm was named director of worldwide advertising and publicity for RKO Radio upon the resignation of Alfred Stern, to become Coast director of public relations for National Telefilm Associates.

20th Century-Fox: Darryl F. Zanuck was elected to the board on Feb. 3 but resigned as the month ended. Approching retirement of Herman Wobber as Western division manager was announced on April 28. On Aug. 5 it was disclosed that development plans for a major portion of the 262-acre studio property encompassed apartment houses, office buildings, stores and a hotel.

Latest design improvements in the Eidophor Theatre Television System were demonstrated in New York in early October for SMPTE visitors. Buddy Adler was signed on Nov. 19 to an exclusive long term contract as executive head of all 20th-Fox production, with the agreement said to call for 5% of film profits payable over a 20-year period.

United Artists: On April 1, it was announced that Arthur B. Krim and Robert S. Benjamin would direct the policies and management of the company under a 10-year agreement. Incorporation of United Artists Record Corp. and United Artists Music Corp. was announced Oct. 7. On Oct. 16 it was disclosed that the corporation had set a $3,500,000 loan for production financing from Loew's, RKO Theatres and AB-PT. Appointment of Alfred H. Tamarin as executive assistant to Max E. Youngstein, president of the record and music subsidiaries, was announced on Oct. 20.

A week later it was disclosed that UA would operate Broadway's Victoria and Astor Theatres, starting Jan. 1. Election of Bruce G. Eels as executive vice-president of United Artists Television, Inc., was disclosed on Nov. 5, Eels moving from the vice-presidency of Television Programs of America. On Nov. 14 it was announced that UA, M-G-M and Titanus Films would join to finance a Titanus production based on the life of Goya.

On Dec. 12 Herbert L. Golden, vice-president of Bankers Trust was elected a vice-president of United Artists and designated to also serve as president of United Artists Television, Inc. On Dec. 19 the company announced that Gotham Television Film Corp., a new subsidiary, had purchased 700,000 shares of Associated Artists Prods. Corp. capital stock for $4,200,000 in cash and an equal amount of $6 sinking fund 6% debentures. (See Television, Section III.)

Universal: Albert A. Garthwaite, a director of Universal, was elected to the board of Decca Records on Jan. 22. On March 13, Felix M. Somer was elected as treasurer and assistant secretary; in the former post he succeeded Eugene F. Walsh. On April 8, the company borrowed $10 millions under a new credit agreement with the First National Bank of Boston and Guaranty Trust Co. of New York. The following day, president Milton R. Rackmil told Decca stockholders, at their annual meeting, that the merger of the two companies would come at some future time. John D. Desmond, on Oct. 13, was elected vice-president of United World Films, a subsidiary.

Promotion of Henry H. Martin from Southern division manager to general sales manager, succeeding the late Charles J. Feldman, was announced on Nov. 6.

On Dec. 19 the company entered into an agreement with Hearst Metrotone News, effective Jan. 1, under which the Universal News utilizes the worldwide news-gathering facilities of News of the Day but continues to distribute its own reel.

Warner Bros.: President Jack L. Warner, on March 20, purchased 95,000 shares of company's common stock from Allen & Co., investment bankers, to bring his total holdings to 233,399 shares. On April 21, Tom O'Sullivan was elected vice-president and treasurer of Warner Bros. Pictures International, and Max Greenberg was elected a vice-president. On July 1 it was announced that the company in association with Kaiser Industries Corp. and AB-PT had established a new corporation to own a new Warners TV film series, "Maverick." In mid-August, Warners closed its Brooklyn laboratories. On Nov. 6, it was disclosed that the company was pooling its resources with the William Morris agency and the Hayward-Wilkes writing-production company to create, produce and exploit industrial films.

On Nov. 13, Warners and National Theatres jointly announced Cinemiracle co-production agreement for three features, the first to be based upon Max Reinhardt's play, "The Miracle."

It was disclosed the next day that Charles Boasberg would join the company as general sales manager on Jan. 1. On the 28th, Edmond L. DePatie and William T. Orr were elected vice-presidents of Warner Bros. Election of Boasberg as president of Warner Bros. Pictures Distributing Corp. and Warner Bros. Distribution Co., Ltd. came on Dec. 19.

● OTHER CORPORATE developments of some importance included these:

Cinerama, Inc., on Jan. 30, disclosed the granting of a new non-exclusive license to Cinerama Prods.

National Telefilm Associates stockholders, on April 4, approved the issue of convertible subordinated debentures up to $8 millions and the doubling of common stock to 2,000,000 shares. Subsequently, the company filed a SEC registration statement covering a proposed offering of 7½ million in debentures.

On April 16, it was announced that IFE Releasing Corp. would be converted into an agency for Italian film producers and authorized to make releasing deals for them in the U. S.

On the same day stockholders of Associated Artists Prods. Corp. approved a four-for-one stock split, resulting in 1,600,000 shares outstanding of an authorized 4,000,000 total.

On June 18, The Film Daily reported the impending merger of ABC Vending Corp. with the Confection Cabinet Corp.

● IN EARLY JULY, Walt Disney Prods. increased its stock interest in Disneyland 34.48 per cent to 65.52 per cent through the exercises of options and Atlas Corp. acquired a 26.6 per cent interest in Walt Disney Prods. common in an arrangement with three charitable foundations.

Milton A. Gordon emerged on Aug. 6 as the sole owner of Television Programs of America, Inc., by purchasing the 50 per cent interest held by Edward Small.

An Atlas Corp. financial report, released on Aug. 28, disclosed the company had sold all of its 20th-Fox and Warner Bros. common stock and also had drastically reduced its investment in Loew's and Paramount.

● ELECTION of B. Gerald Cantor, Robert I. Westheimer and Jack M. Ostrow to the board of National Telefilm Associates was announced on Sept. 23. On the 29th, Ely A. Landau was named chairman of the company's board and chief executive. Oliver A. Unger was elected president, Harold Goldman executive vice-president and Edythe Rein senior vice-president in charge of operations and administration.

On Nov. 12, List Industries purchased 140,000 shares of its common stock from David J. Greene and associates.

On the same day Walt Disney Prods. common stock was listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

● ON NOV. 13, National Television Associates announced it would acquire more than 50 per cent of the common stock of Associated Artists Prods. paying $437.50 in cash, $440 in 7 per cent 7-year subordinated sinking fund debentures and 10 shares of NTA common for each 100 shares of AAP acquired. (See Television, Section III.)

On the same day Cinerama Prods. Corp. revealed that it had paid off the balance of its direct debt in the fiscal year which ended Oct. 31.

On Dec. 22, it was announced that Allied Film Co. had completed negotiations to purchase the Alexander Film Co.

A day later, it was announced that National Screen Service would acquire a 50 per cent interest in National Film Service.

● IN THE EXECUTIVE AREA, in addition to the changes already noted, there were these others of interest, the bracket dates referring to The Film Daily publication:

John L. Burns was elected president of RCA, Frank M. Folmson moving up to the chairmanship of the board's executive committee (1/16).

Keeton Arnett resigned as vice-president of the Allen B. Du Mont Laboratories to become executive vice-president of the Chamber of Commerce of Greater Philadelphia (2/5).

Exhibition: Stress and Apprehension

● FOR EXHIBITION, it was a year of increasing stress and apprehension.

The challenges were many and varied, and unfortunately there were no easy answers. Indeed, as the year faded, solutions in the main were still lacking, and the clouds were, if anything, darkening.

Arbitration, that perennial will-o'-the-wisp, still eluded, although on June 17 agreement was reached on a conciliation system. Arbitration was something else again, and the representatives of distribution and exhibition could not resolve their differences on two vital issues, clearance and availability. However, further conferences were scheduled for 1958, but whether either side would retreat from positions taken was, frankly, doubtful.

Exhibition otherwise had two principal preoccupations in 1957. One was a distribution policy which would insure the orderly release of quality product during the entire year as opposed to the ingrained practice of bunching top pictures for known peak business periods. AB-PT's Leonard H. Goldenson was the quarterback, and Edward H. Hyman his doughty ball carrier.

The second was a halt to the further sale of old pictures—especially the post-1948 features — to television. During the year, the Universal backlog was leased to Columbia for Screen Gems release; this left the Paramount library the only major backlog uncommitted to television.

● THERE WERE requests and demands for MPAA action to stem the television sale tide. President Eric Johnston, citing an opinion by General Counsel Sidney Schreiber, replied that such concerted action would invite Federal antitrust prosecution. Abram F. Myers, National Allied's general counsel and board chairman, had a quick rejoiner: there was no bar to individual company action and decision.

Meanwhile, to many, it seemed that if the Hollywood Guilds and the craft unions would make their percentage demands for a share in the television proceeds high enough the aggregate would leave the companies' shares too small to make post-1948 deals attractive.

● THE ARBITRATION sequence of events was as follows:

As February ended the MPAA president named Abe Montague of Columbia, Charles M. Reagan of Loew's, and George Weltner of Paramount as the association's three-man steering committee. On April 8, the stage was set for arbitration discussions at a luncheon meeting of the distributors group with representatives of TOA and National Allied with May 13 fixed as the meeting day. TOA and National Allied quickly moved to open the discussions to other exhibitor groups, specifically the ITOA, MMPTA and SCTOA. The last named however, backed away taking the position that the discussions would be futile if trade practices and trade policies were excluded from the discussion scope.

At the May meeting, the conferees agreed in principle on conciliation and at a meeting on June 17 the draft of a conciliation system was unanimously adopted by the distribution and exhibition representatives.

There was a further try to reach an agreement on an arbitration system in mid-July, but after three days of deliberation a recess was taken to Sept. 16 when final agreement was reached on a nationwide conciliation system to become effective Nov. 1. At the same time, there were reports that definite progress towards an arbitration agreement had been reached.

Further arbitration conferences scheduled for Dec. 9-10 were called off on Dec. 4 with the explanation given that this was made necessary by the withdrawal of Reagan from the distributors committee following his resignation at Loew's. National Allied made its dissatisfaction with the postponement of the conference emphatically plain. In late December, designation of Alex Harrison, of 20th-Fox, to replace Reagan on the distributors committee was announced by Johnston.

● ON THE NATIONAL ALLIED FRONT these were principal entries in chronological order:

President Ruben Shor in late January told the National Allied Drive-In convention, in Cincinnati, that there would be no merger with TOA so long as he could prevent it but stressed that Allied stands "always ready to work with TOA on common problems."

Allied's board, which met co-incidentally with the drive-in convention, voted to throw Allied's full weight into the campaign for elimination of the Federal Admission Tax. The board re-affirmed Allied's support of the Fulbright bill providing for the reduction of corporate income taxes on the first $25,000 of profits and also approved Allied's action requesting film company presidents to set a meeting with its representatives and those of other exhibitor groups with a view to negotiating an arbitration system.

The board at the final session of its Cincinnati annual meeting adopted a resolution demanding an end to what it referred to as "corporate mergers of producers and distributors"; the board also voted to continue its COMPO negotiating committee, adopted a resolution urging the membership to be on guard against the menace of present and future state or city taxes affecting theatres, adopted a resolution commending 20th-Fox for its plans to aid theatres now in operation and to seek ways to be used to reopen closed houses, and named a committee comprising Sidney Stern, C. Elmer Nolte and Irving Dollinger to study the feasibility of Allied's engaging public relations counsel.

The board elected Julius M. Gordon as Allied's new president, Horace Adams as the new treasurer and Edward Lider as the new secretary.

Gordon, at his first press conference a week later, called for an immediate halt to the industry's "internecine strife."

Allied in March gave its support to legislation to strengthen the Clayton Antitrust Act.

On April 18, it was announced that its directors had voted overwhelmingly for return to COMPO membership. But the board, meeting in early May, in Detroit, balked at the return conditions laid down by the council. The board at its meeting also adopted a lengthy resolution castigating the Dept. of Justice antitrust division.

Allied, on June 13, released a "white paper" on its failure to re-affiliate with COMPO. At the same time, Allied took a dim view of both the Academy Awards poll and the Academy Awards sweepstakes.

In late July, Allied declared war against unfair motion picture reviewers on behalf of the nation's exhibitors.

● ALLIED'S BOARD met again in Pittsburgh on Aug. 14 at which time it approved the draft of the industry conciliation plan, accepted an invitation of COMPO's governing committee to resume its membership under two conditions, adopted a resolution supporting Joseph R. Vogel, of Loew's, in his proxy fight and cited the Senate Small Business Committee's recommendations in its instructions to Allied representative on the arbitration negotiating committee.

The board further adopted a resolution expressing willingness to confer with any company at any time in the hope of bringing about reforms in distribution and exhibition.

Preparing to resume its place in COMPO's board and executive committee, the board designated Ben Marcus, with Irving Dollinger as alternate to serve on the board of directors and further named Edward W. Lider, Nathan Yamins, Jack Whittle, Milton London, Marshall Fine, Harry B. Hendel and Roy Kalver to serve on the executive committee.

A committee comprising Sidney Stern, Irving Dollinger, Marshall Fine and Wilbur Snaper was appointed to study proposals for a public relations program.

Col. H. A. Cole on Oct. 27 announced his resignation as president of Texas Allied Theatre Owners as of Oct. 31 and dissolution of the unit.

● PRESIDENT GORDON in his keynote speech at the National Allied Convention at Kiamesha Lake on Oct. 28 called upon exhibition to seek Government relief via a retroactive accelerated depreciation concession. The convention at its closing session on Oct. 30 adopted a resolution to this end and proposed the creation of a joint legislative committeee, representing all exhibitor organizations, to campaign for Congressional legislation in 1958 making possible such retroactive accelerated depreciation.

The convention adopted another resolution petitioning the distributors to "divide the country into several zones and to stagger the releases of a number of pictures among these newly established zones at least upon an experimental basis."

The convention was advised by its board chairman and general counsel that in the matter of arbitration National Allied would concentrate its efforts in future conferences towards securing a broadened definition of clearance to limit to reasonable lengths the actual time between prior-run and subsequent-run theatres.

And the convention was further informed that the remaining obstacle to resumption of National Allied's place in COMPO had been swept away.

Still another resolution condemned Paramount's re-entry into exhibition via acquisition of the Esquire Theatre, Chicago, and called upon the U. S. Attorney General "to take prompt and determined action to annul the transaction."

● BEN MARCUS, former National Allied president, and head of Allied Independent Theatre Owners of Wisconsin, in November, urged MPAA President Johnston to call a meeting of exhibitor leaders and distributors in efforts to bring about an orderly release of quality pictures throughout the year.

The Department of Justice, on Dec. 1, assured Allied that no change of policy was contemplated in its consent decree enforcement policy. On the same day, Allied, in a statement, hailed the unity manifested in the convention actions of TOA.

On Dec. 3, Allied named Jack Kirsch and Irving Dollinger as a committee on television clearance.

● TOA MET in convention—the 10th—in Miami Beach, Nov. 20 and the major headline resulting appeared in The Film Daily on Nov. 22: "TOA Nixes All Pay TV Forms." The convention placed the national exhibitor organization on record in condemnation of all forms of cable and broadcast pay TV on the ground that they were not in the best interest of the public and exhibitors. But while the convention vote was unanimous, it was conceded that the action could and would not bar TOA-ites from engaging in pay TV if they desired to do so.

Elmer C. Rhoden, National Theatres president, made the keynote speech. He called for: 1, proper film clearance over free TV; 2, a steady supply of quality pictures from Hollywood, properly spaced in release; 3, modernization of theatres by their owners; 4, the taking advantage of the inherent strength of industry unity on a local as well as a national basis.

MPAA President Johnston, making one of his infrequent appearances before an exhibitor convention, pledged his support to Rhoden's second point, called for exhibitor clinics "into the state of the theatre business" in each town, urged that the industry look upon toll TV trials "as research projects," asserted "the noisiest issues within our industry are mostly fancied and cooked up," and proposed that the industry goal in 1958 be a 2,500,000 increase in weekly admissions, and that the 1959 goal be a further comparable increase.

As the Star of the Year, the TOA choice was Universal's Rock Hudson.

TOA's board of directors and executive committee, which also convened at Miami Beach, by resolution called upon the Department of Justice for "an early and favorable decision" on the petition that it give the green light to the production and distribution of pictures by divorced circuits.

● AGAIN, in chronological order, these were the other principal TOA entries of the year:

In late January, President Ernest Stellings named a five-man arbitration committee comprising Mitchell Wolfson, Si H. Fabian, Sam Pinanski, Herman M. Levy and himself, and designated Philip F. Harling to succeed the late Alfred Starr as co-chairman of the Joint Committee on Toll Television. Later in the month, appointment of George Roscoe, former Columbia branch manager, as field representative was announced.

In early March, TOA called for exhibitor financial support of the campaign to back Rep. Emanuel Celler's bill to outlaw subscription television. The board in executive committee also adopted a resolution calling for revision of the Small Business Administration rules to permit the granting of regular mortgage loans to exhibitors or for Senate creation of a new board with such authority.

The board and executive committee further voted to recommend to the Department of Justice that it give consent "as early as possible" to amendments to the consent judgment to permit National Theatres, Stanley Warner and AB-PT and all other divorced circuits "and others" wishing to do so to produce and release pictures with preempted rights to show such films in their own theatres.

● PRESIDENT STELLINGS, on Apr. 10, blasted Telemovies as "business suicide" for exhibitors.

In early June, TOA made a new bid to the Subcommittee on Small Business of the Senate Committee on Banking and Currency to aid exhibitor loan procurement. Ten days later, TOA disclosed the Small Business Administration had decided to accept from exhibitors mortgage-loan applications up to $250,000 payable in ten years in accordance with the SBA rules and regulations.

In early August, TOA gave its support to Loew's President Joseph R. Vogel in his fight with the Tomlinson-Meyer faction on the company's board.

Appointment of Jack M. Barrington as public relations director came later in the month. So, too, did a call to the nation's exhibitors to give more than lip service to efforts to have the divorced circuits produce pictures.

On Oct. 1, General Counsel Herman M. Levy, in his analysis of the new conciliation plan, declared that exhibitors are under "an obligation" to use it.

On Dec. 12, TOA, moving to halt further sale of theatrical features to television, retained Sindlinger & Co. to do the necessary statistical research.

● IN THE GENERAL exhibition field there were these developments of more than passing interest:

Walter Reade Theatres, Snaper Theatres and houses represented by the Independent Theatre Service in January joined in establishing Triangle Theatre Service as a common booking and buying organization.

Gov. Price Daniel, of Texas, on May 20, signed a new anti-checking statute. Later in the month, on the 26th, blind checking was barred by a new Arkansas law paralleling that of Texas. On the 29th, an anti-blind checking measure died in a House committee as the Oklahoma Legislature adjourned not to meet again until 1959.

In June, Detroit exhibitors united to initiate a mass invitational sampling program to rebuild the movie-going habit through free ticket distribution.

On June 27, Emanuel Frisch, MMPTA board chairman, was appointed Amusement and Recre-

On Dec. 22, Attorney General Bruce Bennett, of Arkansas, held that the anti-blind checking law passed in March to be unconstitutional and void.

On Aug. 14, the New York City Council passed a bill eliminating the 5% municipal tax on film admissions up to 90c. Subsequently, the measure was approved by the Board of Estimate and on Aug. 30 Mayor Robert F. Wagner signed it into law. It was the most significant tax victory of the year from the industry's viewpoint.

III
Television: Cable Theatre, Toll TV

● THE YEAR'S MAJOR television developments as far as the motion picture industry was concerned pertained to the subscription or toll variety. They were:

1. The Federal Communications Commission on Sept. 18 finally voted to authorize a three-year experimental trial period for paid TV, but said it would issue no permits for such service earlier than March 1. On Oct. 17, the Commission announced the conditions governing the experimental operation. Earlier, on May 23, the Commission had determined that it possessed legal authority to sanction toll TV provided it felt that such action would be in the public interest. (See The Film Daily for May 24.)

The Joint Committee on Toll TV was quick to charge the FCC with erring and thereafter, on June 16, the NARTB, hoisting a storm warning, called upon Congress to decide the vital issues of public interest involved. In early July the FCC was flooded with new pro and con briefs. (See The Film Daily for July 9.)

Later, on July 14, Rep. Emanuel Celler, of New York, chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, warned the Commission that it cannot issue valid licenses for toll TV on the basis of existing law, and that any attempt to do so will invite extending litigation.

The Commission retorted that although Congress has the power to declare toll TV unlawful, it has not exercised it and hence the Commission would continue to consider issuance of experimental toll TV licenses in selected areas. On July 29, the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists' convention adopted a resolution calling on the Congress to take toll TV jurisdiction from the FCC and Government agencies and immediately set up hearings to protect "both the public interest and performers."

On Aug. 28, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, meeting in convention in Miami Beach, called upon the FCC to reject toll TV.

From then on, pressures mounted and tempers rose. Finally, on Dec 12, the AFL-CIO convention at Atlantic City unanimously approved a resolution blasting toll TV and authorizing representations to that end to the FCC and to the Congress.

Despite the Commission's significant September action, as the year ended a single application had been filed. The petitioner was the Philadelphia Broadcasting Co., licensee of Station WSES (Channel 2). The application, filed on Dec. 29, requested authorization to conduct subscription TV programs upon completion of the station still to be constructed. Skiatron's Subscriber-Vision was cited as the system to be employed. (See The Film Daily for Dec. 30).

● 2. VIDEO INDEPENDENT THEATRES, headed by Henry S. Griffing, through Vumore Co., a subsidiary, on Sept. 3 introduced Telemovies, employing a closed circuit "cable theatre" system developed by Jerrold Electronics Corp. of Philadelphia, in Bartlesville, Okla. Griffing confidently foresaw Telemovies operating in 20 cities in Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico within a two-year period, and predicted that Telemovies would alter the traditional pattern of film rentals and follow the course of drive-ins in distributor relations, (See The Film Daily for Feb. 11, March 21, April 4, May 14, Sept. 4, 24, Dec. 17).

The Oklahoma plunge into paid TV resulted in a rush by others in exhibition, largely West of the Mississippi, to obtain protective franchises in their own territories. Among those making such moves were Rowley United Theatres, North Little Rock Theatres, Interstate Home Corp., a subsidiary of Interstate Theatres, Fox-Wasatch Intermountain Theatres, Concho Theatres, Weisenburg Theatres, Lubbach Theatres, Laredo Theatres, Y & W Management Corp. and Commonwealth Theatres. Broadcasters, too, in certain situations filed for Telemovie franchises "just in case." Stations involved in some instances were newspaper-owned.

Two of the more ambitious wired TV projects were initiated by the Telemovie Development Corp. of Los Angeles which planned operations in five or six states and the Schine Circuit which incorporated Home-Vue Theatre Systems, Inc. to operate wired TV in 40 New York counties. Another project of interest was that of Televents, Inc., of Denver which sought wired TV permits in Utah cities. (See The Film Daily for Oct. 31, Nov. 4, 8).

● 3. SKIATRON TV, INC., Matty Fox's private company, filed for 21-year toll TV franchises in Los Angeles, San Francisco and Milwaukee, and initiated applications in approximately 90 other communities in Southern California. Also filing in Los Angeles was a company jointly owned by International Telemeter Corp., a Paramount Pictures subsidiary, and Fox West Coast Theatres, a National Theatres subsidiary, as well as Harriscope, Inc. The Los Angeles City Council approved the three applications, causing the Southern California TOA to promptly move into action on two fronts. The objectives: A referendum on the franchise issue and blocking of telephone wire usage. In San Francisco, where the opposition appeared earlier and seemed better organized, franchise action stalled. But in Milwaukee in early October, the City Council voted, 12 to six, to grant Fox's company a franchise. (See The Film Daily for June 24, July 1, 3, 10, 19, 24, 29; Aug. 23; Sept. 6, 26; Oct. 1, 17; Dec. 9, 11, 12, 19).

Harriscope, a film syndication and production company, as July ended disclosed that it would file for permission to install a toll TV system in Caracas, Venezuela, and four other countries not identified, and that in the Los Angeles area, there would be other filings in Burbank, Glendale, Pasadena, Beverly Hills and Santa Monica.

● THERE WERE FOUR important deals in the television field involving film interests. The most important undoubtedly was the purchase of 700,000 shares of stock in Associated Artists Production Corp. by Gotham Television Film Corp., a new United Artists subsidiary, from a group of 12 AAPC stockholders. The purchase price was $12 a share, consisting of $6, or a total of $4,200,000 in cash and an equal amount of $6 sinking fund six per cent debentures.

The selling group included Louis Chesler, chairman of A. A. P.; Benjamin Chester, Molly Chesler, Chesler Operations, Inc., B. Solway, L. J. Fogler, E. D. Wright, E. T. Lynch, J. H. Greenberg, Ken Kelman, Maxwell Goldhar, executive vice president of A.A.P. and Donnell & Mudge, Ltd., Canadian distributor of television film.

The Chesler group originally started negotiations with National Telefilm Associates which culminated in a suit pending in New York Supreme Court at the year-end. National Telefilm Associates offered $4.375 in cash, $4.4 in debentures and one-tenth share of N.T.A. stock for each share of A.A.P. stock.

Associated Artists Productions became a factor in the television feature film distribution and syndication field in 1956, when it was sold by Eliot Hyman, still president, to PRM, Inc., a shell corporation controlled by a syndicate headed by Louis Chesler, a Canadian financier. Chesler had just purchased the pre-1948 feature film library of Warner Brothers for $15,000,000.

● SCREEN GEMS, wholly owned subsidiary of Columbia Pictures, on Aug. 2, acquired seven-year distribution rights to approximately 600 Universal features with a minimum guarantee to the latter of $200,000,000. (See The Film Daily for Aug. 5).

National Telefilm Associates on Aug. 25 entered the station field by purchasing the controlling interest in the independent station, KMGM, in Minneapolis, 25 per cent owned by Loew's.

On Sept. 8, it was announced that Guild Films had purchased 1,200 RKO Radio short subjects from C & C Television Corp., headed by the indefatigable Matty Fox.

● THESE FURTHER DEVELOPMENTS in television also made Film Daily headlines during the year:

Joseph R. Vogel, president of Loew's, announced on Jan. 21 that the company through its new MGM-TV special division was beginning the direct production of films for television and on the same day National Telefilm Associates formed NTA Pictures with Erwin Lesser as operating head to enter the theatrical distribution field.

As the month ended, International Telemeter disclosed its preparation to sell exhibitors on a closed circuit system through which shows and movies would be televised from theatres directly into a neighborhood. In early February, there was a further International Telemeter disclosure of the contemplated erection of electronic neighborhood theatres in shopping centers and real estate developments.

On Feb. 6 it was announced that NBC would finance three Bob Hope theatrical features in return for a 50% interest in them.

On March 24, Gov. George D. Clyde, of Utah, affixed his signature to a bill providing for tax supported television in that state.

● THE SMPTE at its Spring convention in Washington on May 1, formed a permanent committee on closed circuit television.

On July 9 Warner Bros. announced expanding television activities and the start of construction on a new million dollar building at the studio.

On Aug. 22, John J. Fitzgibbons, president of Famous Players Canadian Corp., said at a N. Y. press conference that the major Canadian theatre chain would pioneer closed circuit pay TV in Canada "before the end of 1958."

In early September, the Screen Directors Guild and the Writers Guild of America, West, reached a payment agreement covering 10 post-1948 Warner Bros. pictures purchased for TV by Associated Artists Prods. Corp.

Teleglobe Corp., on Sept. 16, applied to the FCC for approval of its pay TV system developed by Solomon Sagall, former managing director of Scophony Ltd. of London.

As September faded, the NTA Film Network, 50% owned by 20th-Fox, announced it would enter the live show field and changed its name to NTA Network on Jan. 1.

● RKO TELERADIO PICTURES on Nov. 11 announced it would file for FCC authorization to participate in toll TV tests but such filing was still to come as the year closed.

The FCC on Nov. 21, over the vigorous objections of one of its members, established a precedent by approving transfer of control of Minneapolis station KMGM-TV to National Television Associates.

The Film Daily on Nov. 26 exclusively reported that Subscription Television Ltd. had been formed in Australia as a subsidiary of Rola Corp. (Australia) Pty., Ltd., which holds the Australian rights to Zenith Radio Corp.'s Phonevision system.

Three days later it was announced that Famous Players Canadian Corp. and Odeon Theatres of Canada would join forces for experimental transmission of toll TV in Canada using Paramount's Telemeter system.

Incorporation of the American Citizens Television Committee as a non-profit educational group to organize nation-wide opposition to toll TV was announced in Washington on Dec. 1.

On Dec. 8 it was disclosed that Skiatron International Corp. had entered into a 21-year working agreement with Rediffusion, Ltd. of London.

The Joint Committee on Toll TV met in New York City on Dec. 10 and determined upon a nationwide grass roots drive to line up members of Congress in support of anti toll TV legislation.

On the same day, Skiatron TV, Inc., finalized a 10-year exclusive services contract with S. Hurok to head its cultural entertainment division. The following day, Skiatron's president, Matty Fox, gave C & C TV Corp., which he also heads, an option to acquire 87½% of the capital stock of Skiatron and its subsidiary, Skiatron International Corp.

IV

● IN SEVERAL important areas 1957 for the Motion Picture Association reflected the serial's familiar "to be continued in our next."

In 1956, the association had taken the first decisive step towards a program designed to bolster the theatre box office. Yet as 1957 ended the program and its financing remained incomplete, and certain projects which had been hailed as highlights had fallen by the wayside, while other had been deferred.

The responsibility, however, was hardly to be placed on the association's doorstep.

What was then to all intents and purposes the final program was put together by a joint committee in mid-March; it represented a fusion of the individual MPAA, TOA and COMPO programs, and called for:

1. Academy Award Sweepstakes.

2. Second Audience Awards poll, to be conducted in the Autumn.

3. A community reel, designed to emphasize the film theatre's role in the community.

4. Product trailers, to be produced by individual companies, in lieu of an hour-long all-company trailer.

5. Industry 13-week radio program, "operation moviegoing," calling for nation-wide use of disc jockeys in 80 cities; campaign cost is tentatively estimated at $319,697.33.

6. Two-phase personality tour program; first phase would be extension of conventional p.a. tours; second would involve exhibitor financing of visits by writers, producers, directors, costume and scenic designers.

7. National (institutional) advertising campaign for theatres, to be undertaken after completion of the market research report and development of an acceptable copy approach.

(The MPAA board in early February authorized the engagement of Opinion Research Corp. of Princeton, N. J., to conduct the industry's first market research project. It was made from mid-June to mid-July, the findings were expected to be available in September, but were still forthcoming as the year ended).

8. Visits to editors and publishers, but only in cities where exhibitors request such action.

9. Reduction of advertising billings; presentation will be prepared for Hollywood's consideration.

10. Market survey. (See point 7). The MPAA retained the Opinion Research Corp. of Princeton, N. J. to conduct this with a $75,000 budget.

● THE MPAA BOARD at a meeting on May 22 gave its full support to these 10 and an added 11th—observance of Hollywood's Golden Jubilee, a proposal originating with the AMPP's Studio Publicity Directors Committee.

The board appropriated $100,000 for the establishment of a permanent staff in New York and Hollywood to function under the supervision of the Advertising and Publicity Directors Committee with which the association's program draft had originated in 1956. In due course, appointment of Oscar A. Doob, former Loew's executive, as executive coordinator in New York was announced. The Hollywood appointment was never made. Doob's resignation was a December development.

In addition to appropriating the $100,000, the board approved certain other business building budget items aggregating $275,000, to be provided on a 50-50 basis by distribution and exhibition. The breakdown:

$150,000 for the second Academy Awards Sweepstakes contest; $75,000 for the second annual Audience Awards; $25,000 for visits by industry leaders to newspaper editors and publishers "to bring them the story of motion pictures"; $12,000 for the production of a promotional short stressing the importance of the motion picture to the nation and of the film theatre to the community; $5,000 for a test in Denver of a disk jockey promotion called "Operation Moviegoing."

Although the board did not take up program financing at the May meeting, President Ernest G. Stellings of TOA had proposed an over-all $2,800,000, to be provided by distribution and exhibition equally on the basis of film rentals.

● IT PATENTLY is one thing to conceive and authorize a program, still another to carry it out, unfortunately. Project casualties ere 1967 ended included:

The Golden Jubilee and the Hollywood tour program, cancelled in October; the Academy Sweepstakes, the Audience Awards poll, the visits to editors and publishers, the community reel, the elaborate product trailers (although 20th-

"Operation Moviegoing" was successfully tried in Denver and Rochester, but there was no attempt to extend it; the institutional advertising campaign still waited presentation to exhibition; there was Hollywood coolness to any curtailment of billings, and the Opinion Research study results, expected to be ready in the Fall, were still awaited as 1957 passed.

And as the year ended, aside from the specific MPAA commitments, there was as yet no agreement upon budget and its ratio. Crisis or no crisis, the industry, it seemed, was content to go its leisurely way.

There was agreement on one thing, however; in late October, it was announced that "Get More Out of Life . . . Go Out to a Movie" had been adopted as the campaign's official slogan. And for once, a slogan caught on, not only in the industry but without.

● AS A COROLLARY to the business-building program, the MPAA, pressed by the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, committed itself to join with others in production to finance the 1958 "Oscar" Awards telecast and thus use it to promote the motion picture rather than to sell Oldsmobiles as in 1955 and 1956. This entailed a $600,000 obligation, to come from a small percentage of the gross domestic rentals.

The announcement was made jointly by President Eric Johnston and Academy President George Seaton at a Sept. 9 press conference. At the same time, it was disclosed that the Academy had submitted six other proposals to the MPAA directors, with action deferred. They were:

1. Sponsorship of an international film festival.

2. Establishment of a motion picture industry museum.

3. Development of traveling movie museums "suitable for display in theatre lobbies or hotels."

4. Development of other traveling shows to capitalize on "the great public interest in various phases of motion picture making." Experts in each field could accompany the exhibits.

5. Introduction of new publications, including "a quarterly magazine which would contain outstanding articles about various phases of motion picture production and be circulated to educators, critics and other persons interested in film making throughout the world."

6. Establishment of a cooperative educational program under which "the Academy would expand its work with educational institutions having motion picture production courses and initiate new projects aimed at raising the technical standards of film making by educating talented newcomers."

As the year ebbed with some companies feeling the economic pinch, there were reports that exhibition participation in the telecast's financing might be sought; that there would be at least some resistance to this was certain.

● WHEN THE MPAA in late 1956 revised the Production Code and approved "in principle" the expansion of the PCA appeals board, the latter step actually was not taken until June 13 at which time the board voted to enlarge the membership to 20, with 10 to represent exhibition and independent production. The step brought United Artists back into the fold on June 19.

President Johnston obviously encountered difficulty in lining up exhibitors and independent producers to serve inasmuch as the complexion of the new appeals body was not announced until Sept. 17. Its members follow:

Exhibitors—Russell V. Downing, president, Radio City Music Hall Corp. Leopold Friedman, president, Loew's Theatres. Leonard H. Goldenson, president, American Broadcasting-Paramount Theatres, Inc. George Kerasotes, Kerasotes Theatres, Springfield, Ill. Ben D. Marcus, general manager, Marcus Theatre Management Co., Milwaukee. Sol A. Schwartz, president, RKO Theatres.

Non-member producers—John Ford, John Ford Prods. William Goetz, William Goetz Prods. F. Hugh Herbert, Herbert-Robson Prods. George Sidney Prods.

MPAA members—Barney Balaban, president, Paramount Pictures. Eric Johnston. Benjamin Kalmenson, Warner Bros. v.-p. Arthur B. Krim, United Artists president. Edward Morey, Allied Artists v.-p. John J. O'Connor, Universal Pictures v.-p. Daniel T. O'Shea, RKO Radio Pictures president. Abe Schneider, Columrbia Pictures v.-p. Spyros P. Skouras, 20th-Fox president. Joseph R. Vogel, Loew's president.

● PRESIDENT JOHNSTON, who was re-elected with all other association officers on April 8, received a three-year employment contract extension on May 22, thus insuring his services for the next seven years.

Arthur H. De Bra, veteran association executive, retired in mid-April as director of its community and exhibitor relations department. His successor was Stanley McIntosh. Late in October, Mrs. Marjorie Dawson resigned as associate director of community relations. Appointment of Mrs. Margaret G. Twyman as assistant director of educational and community services followed.

A first meeting of officers and representatives of the MPAA and the AFM to discuss the knotty question of proper royalties on TV film sales was held at the end of July; it remained unfinished business as the year ended.

On Aug. 8, it was announced that a MPAA-ACTT agreement set a limit of 12 on the employment of American producers and directors on British features distributed by association member companies.

Republic Pictures' resignation from the association was announced on Dec. 8.

President Johnston was honored in October by the International Rescue Committee which presented him with its Distinguished Service Award in recognition of the industry's aid to Hungarian escapees.

V
International: The U.S. "Invaded"

● THE INTERNATIONAL industry's interest in the penetration and exploitation of the rich American market increased markedly in 1957.

Rank Film Distributors of America, Inc., headed by Kenneth Hargreaves, started operations—it had been organized late in 1956—and, with typical British determination, "invaded" the Deep South where previously English films had encountered strong resistance. The "invasion" made appreciable progress, and the Rank sales efforts elsewhere were so encouraging in the first six months that John H. Davis, visiting New York in November, found it easy to say he was "very pleased indeed."

To its original American show window, the Sutton, the Rank U. S. subsidiary late in the year added the Globe, renaming it, naturally enough, the Odeon.

Meanwhile in Britain, HRH, Queen Elizabeth, also had been pleased to create J. Arthur Rank Baron of Sutton Scotney, and in due course, he took his seat in Lords.

Three other countries made their interest in the American market very plain.

In January, the first Japan Film Week was held in New York, and the attending Tokyo delegation hailed it a success.

In July, the German Export Union appointed Munio Podhorzer as its official American representative in New York.

In December, Jacques Flaud, director general of France's Centre National de la Cinematographie, told The Film Daily in Paris that consideration was being given to the acquisition of American theatres as showplaces for French pictures.

● THESE INTERNATIONAL developments also made headlines during the year.

On Jan. 8 Warner Bros. announced plans for a major program of theatre expansion overseas. As the year ended, Warners made the first move in that direction leasing the Eros Theatre in Bombay for five years.

In early February, Lord Lucas withdrew his amendment to the pending British Films Bill which would have denied full EADY fund benefits to American companies producing British films.

The International Union of Film Exhibitors, meeting at Lusanne, Switzerland in early February, called upon its member associations "to take up by all means within their power the struggle against the abusive rental fees which are currently being proposed for films which far from being extraordinary are no more than the normal products of advances in film techniques."

The Administrative Council of the International Federation of Film Producers Associations at its May meeting in Cannes agreed to recognize the Venice International Festival subject to the condition that its organizing committee bring the festival regulations into line with those of the IFFPA.

As May ended, John G. McCarthy, former vice-pres. of the MPEA, was appointed director of the Office of Economic Affairs of the U. S. Mission to European Regional Organizations, with headquarters in Paris. The appointment carried with it the rank of Minister.

On June 10, it was announced that Globe Films International would take over Republic's distribution in Italy.

● IN MID-JUNE the Association of Cinematograph and Television Technicians moved to force MPAA companies and other American producers to agree to a limitation on the employment of U. S. producers and directors in pictures made in Great Britain. But after a Labor Ministry conference, shortly thereafter, backtracked.

In late June, Sir Richard Yeabsley was named chairman of the new British Film Fund Agency and Sir Henry Gregory and H. D. Cole were designated to serve with him.

In mid-July the British Film Producers Association named a committee of four to investigate Herbert Wilcox's proposal to establish a central office in the U. S. and other countries to promote British films.

On Sept. 10, Mayor George Christopher invited 12 nations to participate in an International Film Festival to be held yearly under the auspices of the San Francisco Art Commission.

Gordon S. Knight, chief of the British Board of Trade's motion picture branch, visiting New York in early October, said that the two sensitive areas as the British Government drafted new film legislation would relate to the definition of what constitutes a British picture and some provision for the extension of exhibitor quota exemption to give relief to hard-pressed exhibitors.

● PARAMOUNT FILMS OF INDIA in early November won a very important copyright infringement action in the State High Court, Bombay, against the producer of the Indian film "Begunnah" on the ground that it was substantially a copy of Danny Kaye's picture "Knock on Wood."

As November ended it was announced RKO Radio would distribute Allied Artists product in Australia.

The CEA General Council in Great Britain, in early December, agreed to the TV screening of old British films, subject to conditions limiting their presentation to offkey hours.

On Dec. 18 it was announced in London that the BBC had acquired television rights to approximately 100 RKO Radio features for 215,000 pounds. The deal made with Robin International and running for seven years was the largest yet made for films on British TV.

Creation of an Advisory Council on International Film Festivals was envisioned at a Washington meeting sponsored by the National Education Association on Dec. 22.

● DURING THE YEAR, three foreign Governments saw fit to confer decorations upon American industry figures.

Robert J. Corkery, MPEA vice president in charge of the Latin American division, received Southern Cross of Brazil.

Nathan D. Golden, of the U. S. Department of Commerce, and long its liaison with the industry, was created a Chevalier of the French Legion of Honor.

President Giovanni Gronchi of Italy conferred the prized Order, "Al Merito della Repubblica Italiana" upon these 10:

Nathan J. Blumberg, George Seaton, John B. Nathan, Cecil B. De Mille, Chester B. Bahn, Russell Holman, Jerome Pickman, Luigi Luraschi, Carl Shaefer and Paul Wrangell.

VI

MPEA: Major Film Agreements

● THE MPEA negotiated two major film agreements in 1957, one for a single year with Great Britain and the second for two years with France. The former was worked out in Washington on Sept. 24 in a matter of 90 minutes, but the latter was the subject of prolonged bargaining in Paris and, because of the Government crisis there, was not finalized until Dec. 3.

While the British agreement was simply a renewal of the expiring pact, the French agreement, although retaining the 110 import permit provision and remittance conditions, nonetheless was marked by significant changes.

The agreement guarantees the MPEA member companies 110 import licenses annually for the two-year period. The first year, the division of permits will be made entirely by the MPEA. However, for the second year, the MPEA allocation will be reduced to 70, with the remaining 40 to be passed out by the French Government to those U. S. companies which have done the most to "help French films."

While the basic remittance provisions reportedly are in line with the agreement which expired last June 30, actually the American remittables will be lower, reflecting a hiked tax on Hollywood imports. The French propose to use these funds for the penetration of the American market. One planned step: Acquisition of some 10 "showcases" in one or more ways.

The new accord continues the rate of payment (1.4 per cent of MPEA member company film revenues) to the Centre National.

● THERE WERE these other agreement developments:

The MPEA board in mid-March approved the provisional extension of the Belgian agreement; a remittance-loan agreement was the Japanese Government, first disclosed on April 8, was concluded in Tokyo on June 10; on May 22, it was revealed that an agreement made with the Australian Government would permit the transfer over a three-year period of $5,000,000 in blocked earnings to other countries of the Sterling Bloc; Australian earnings went on a current limital basis on June 30; a new one-year Pakistan agreement was announced on June 18; a Philippine remittance agreement releasing approximately $9,000,000 in blocked American earnings was approved by the MPEA board on Aug. 14, but other troublesome P. I. issues remained unresolved; West Germany agreed in early September to impose no restrictions on American film imports for the distribution year despite any GATT and European Common Market developments, the U. S. companies in turn voluntarily agreeing to hold down the number of features imported to 200.

The Japanese agreement freed $3,600,000 in blocked earnings, while approximately $6,600,000 was loaned to the Government-controlled Electric Power Co. Ltd. on terms paralleling those introduced for a precedent-setting loan negotiated two years earlier. The loan extends for six years at three per cent. Repayment starts after the third year on the basis of installments every six months. Both interest and loan repayment installments are freely transferrable in dollars.

● THE ASSOCIATION'S directors on Sept. 4 determined to end the attempt to work out American film sales with Soviet Russia and four satellites, Czechoslovakia, Bulgaria, Rumania and Albania. Such sales, through the association, had been authorized in 1956. Work proceded on deals with East Germany and Poland.

The embargo upon the shipment of new Hollywood films to Spain by member companies remained in effect at the year-end, but there was a break in the dyke. RKO Radio in mid-October found it expedient to sell its Spanish subsidiary to Jose Ramos, its former Spanish manager, who also operates a theatre circuit. The MPEA registered its displeasure but apparently there was no way to remove the flaming fat from the Spanish fire. Meanwhile, the MPEA board voted to hold the line.

A variety of moves originating both with the MPEA and Spanish interests to end the impasse, now more than two years' old, were made during the year, but all failed.

● MPEA MEMBER companies however did return to the Danish market on July 1 following acceptance of the higher rental terms asked by a limited number of exhibitors who, to do so, broke away from the Danish theatre owners association. The move to heal the breach there was initiated in mid-February. At the year end, while the ranks of theatres playing Hollywood product had been increased somewhat, the American recapture of the market apparently still had some distance to go.

Unquestionably, the worst blows to the industry overseas during the year were dealt in India. Not only did the Nehru Government as the year started reduce imports by 50 per cent, but on Oct. 1 it cut them back 90 per cent for the ensuing six-months period. The association dispatched its experienced trouble-shooter, Vice President Irving Maas, to New Delhi to backstop its resident representative, Charles Egan.

American industry interest in the advent of the European Common Market, subject of two association conferences, one in Rome, the second in London, and some of the more pressing problems with which the MPEA was concerned during the year will be found reflected in the chronological run-down later in this section.

● THE ASSOCIATION'S own foreign service underwent changes in 1957. Perhaps the greatest loss was that of Fayette W. Allport, long the association's representative in Great Britain, whose totally unexpected death from a heart attack in London saddened the industry in early December.

Earlier, the resignation of Marc M. Spiegel as Continental manager, headquartering in Paris, to become vice-president of Hecht-Hill-Lancaster had been announced. Thereafter, Leo Hochstetter, who had manned the Far East outpost in Tokyo, was recalled, and announcement that he would replace Spiegel followed. However, he remained in New York past his scheduled departure date, with reports current that he would receive another assignment.

Thomas J. McNamara was elected assistant treasurer of the association in January upon the resignation of Frank J. Alford to accept a post in Government.

In early September, Steven Beers joined the association staff in New York as assistant to Vice President G. Griffith Johnson and George Vietheer, executive officer.

The association lost one of its long-standing members in December with the resignation of Republic Pictures International.

● OTHER MPEA developments of some importance were these.

The association board on Feb. 27 authorized the establishment of a Film Board in Manila.

Pressed by the association, the National Bank of Columbia in March agreed to include unremitted 1956 earnings there in the scope of the country's commercial debt liquidation plan. However, President Johnston's quick intercession and action was necessary in early October to save $1,500,000 in remittances.

President Eric Johnston and all officers were re-elected on April 8.

In a petition to the Senate subcommittee on the Trading with the Enemy Act, the association asked that film companies be reimbursed for losses suffered in the Philippines during World War II.

Vice President Johnson, in Paris, disclosed in May that the association was prepared to help domestic industries overseas in their tax relief campaigns.

● PRESIDENT JOHNSTON in early May assailed reduced appropriations for foreign economic development in two major addresses.

The MPEA elected to bypass the International Film Festival at San Sebastian as a result of the breaking off of Spanish-American film accord negotiations.

President Johnston and Vice President Robert J. Corkery visited Rio de Janeiro and Buenos Aires in August; their principal concern: taxation, remittances, ceilings on admissions. While in the Argentine capital, Johnston disclosed a resumption of film deal discussions with the Soviets. On his return, Johnston declared that despite current problems, the "growth potential of motion pictures is very great" (See The Film Daily for Sept. 5).

● IN LATE SEPTEMBER, the association won its fight to halt a Turkish move to apply price controls to U. S. product sold outright to Turkish independent distributors.

President Johnston told the Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee on Oct. 7 that deteriorating financial and economic conditions in some countries make the Government's Informational Media Guaranty program more essential than ever and that the film industry in the near future would be compelled to utilize the program more or abandon some markets to the subsidized films of other countries.

The association in mid-October protested to the Venice International Film Festival authorities over the unauthorized screening at Turin of Metro's "Something of Value."

President Johnston as the year waned, urged a five-year extension of the reciprocal trade act in a letter to Chairman Hale Boggs of the House Ways and Means subcommittee on foreign trade policy; there were reports that the White House planned to call upon him to play an active part in rallying public support for the Eisenhower foreign aid program.

VII
In the Area of Governments

● ON CAPITOL HILL in Washington during 1957, there were these principal industry developments:

1. On May 5, the Senate Committee in Juvenile Delinquency reported that it found the content of motion pictures and of motion picture advertising improved, but that there remained room for improvement. The committee had this to say, among other things:

"There should be power to invoke sanctions against those members of the Motion Picture Production Code who violate the provisions of the Code."

The committee urged upon the MPAA that it report annually on the number and kind of rejections of content made in the process of administering the Code. That having been done, the committee said " . . . it (MPAA) should contest the decisions of censor boards which request additional changes or deletions, and which the Association believes unwarranted."

Noting that hearings were held in Los Angeles because the committee "wanted to take a closer look at the Hollywood Advertising Code," the report said that it seemed "to have been administered far too laxly in the last few years. The predominance of crime, horror, violence, and sex portrayed in film advertisements not only transgresses upon good taste but also constitutes a genuinely harmful influence on young people."

And the committee went on to say, "It is certainly to be hoped that the industry will police itself and not force the Federal Government to intervene."

Whether justified or not, the industry plainly was on notice.

● 2. ON JUNE 7, the House Judiciary Committee submitted a report in which it was charged that the Department of Justice was derelict in permitting United Paramount Theatres, Inc., to merge with the American Broadcasting Co.

Said the report:

"The committee concludes that the Department of Justice was derelict in this case; its conduct fell far short of that required in the administration and enforcement of the antitrust laws."

In its recital the Judiciary Committee absolved FCC of blame but said the Justice Department failed to move in, although warned, until four months after the merger hearing had been conducted and nothing was left but formal decision. Then, Attorney General James P. McGranery wrote to FCC "suggesting that consummation of the proposed merger might substantially lessen competition in both the broadcast and the motion picture industry."

● OTHERWISE, in the area of Government there were these entries of some import:

On May 1, the Small Business Administration released a letter written by Administrator Wendell B. Barnes turning down a TOA request that its rules be liberalized. The TOA's objectives: easier terms for loans to exhibitors and elimination of the requirement that loan applications be accompanied by a statement of inability to obtain private financing.

In the SBA letter to TOA's Philip Harling, Barnes wrote:

"We submit," Barnes went on, "that if motion picture exhibitors will comply with the proper credit requirements, including the ability to repay, and make application as have thousands of other American small business concerns, then satisfactory financial assistance from SBA will be made available to them. . . .

"We doubt that Congress would, or should, remove the prerequisite that private financing be unavailable. It is fundamental American economic policy that the Government will not furnish that which is available from private enterprise. Furthermore, we doubt that Congress would, or should, eliminate the requirement that SBA loans be of such sound value or so secured as reasonably to assure repayment. SBA loans are designed to assist small business concerns to economic health. The greatest disservice that SBA can do an honest businessman is to make a loan that he is unable to repay and which would only postpone the day of reckoning."

● AS APRIL ENDED, Arthur Larson, then chief of the motion picture division of the USIA, found it necessary to publicly defend a theatrical motion picture project in which the Agency and a producer shared the cost (to the extent of $100,000) of making an anti-Communist picture widely exhibited in the U. S., but he declined to identify the production. In due course, the press did—it was Peter Rathvon's production of George Orwell's "1984," made in England for Columbia release in the Fall of 1956. Larson had this explanation: "The producer put up about a half million to our $100,000. In return for our contribution, we received control of the script, and agreement by the producer to give the film extensive foreign showings." (See The Film Daily for May 1.) However, the furore created virtually assured that never again would an agency of the Government subsidize a commercial theatrical picture as a propaganda medium.

On Sept. 26, the NLRB ruled that an annual gross of less than $2,000,000 by a theatre circuit is insufficient in amount to warrant it taking jurisdiction in a complaint by a projectionist that he was discriminatorily discharged from his job.

On Oct. 16, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles appointed George Murphy and Robert Montgomery to be members of the U. S. Advisory Committee on Educational Exchange of the Arts.

VIII
The United States vs the Industry

● ON THE GOVERNMENT litigation front, there were six highly important antitrust suits instituted by the Department of Justice in 1957. The charge in each was the same—compulsory block booking of motion pictures for television exhibition.

The first suit was filed in New York Federal Court on March 27 and named Loew's, Inc. The other five actions were filed in the same Court on April 18, the defendants being C. & C. Super Corp.; owner of the RKO Radio Pictures library; Screen Gems, Columbia Pictures subsidiary and distributor of that company's films for television; Associated Artists Prods., owner of the Warner Bros. library; National Television Associates, distributor to TV of certain 20th Century-Fox films and others, and United Artists Corp.

Explained U. S. Assistant Attorney General William P. Rogers:

"The purpose of these complaints is to secure an injunction preventing the forcing of theatre motion pictures in blocks upon television stations, and to require the distributors to offer them to television stations on a picture-by-picture basis.

"Such relief would not prevent television stations from licensing a large number of pictures at one time for adminstrative convenience; the only requirement would be that the distributors must permit the stations to select the pictures making up the group, and permit negotiations picture by picture."

Assistant Attorney General Victor R. Hansen, head of the D of J's antitrust division, added:

"The compulsory block booking of copyrighted feature motion pictures was declared to be illegal in the well-known Paramount case, which evaluated many aspects of the motion picture industry. We believe that the rule of that case as to block-booking is equally applicable to television.

"If we are successful in eradicating block-booking, non-network television stations (many of which are UHF stations) in particular should be benefited since they do not have network programs and rely heavily on feature films as a means of competing with network stations."

To at least readers of The Film Daily, the Government's drive to enjoin block licensing of features to television stations did not come as a surprise—the paper exclusively "broke" the story that the Department of Justice was studying the situation in mid-March.

● OTHERWISE, these were the more newsworthy developments in the area of Federal litigation:

On March 4 in Buffalo, Federal Judge Harold B. Burke denied a new trial motion in the Schine criminal contempt action brought by the Government.

The following day the Department of Justice filed a civil antitrust suit in New York Federal Court against the United Scenic Artists Local 829 of the Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paper Hangers. The charge; restraint of trade in providing scenery and costumes for stage attractions.

As March ended, two consent judgments were entered in New York Federal Court ending civil antitrust actions against National Screen Service and eight producers.

On the Trade's Legal Firing Line

● IN THE FIELD of antitrust litigation, there was a strange paradox in 1957. More exhibitors initiated actions charging violations of the Sherman and Clayton Acts than in 1956, but strangely the financial balm they sought was, in the aggregate, less than half of the total for the preceding year.

Suits filed during the past year totaled 33, or three more than in 1956, but nine less than in 1955, five less than in 1954 and 34 less than in 1953.

Specific damages were asked in 25 actions in 1957 as against 22 in 1956, 31 in 1955, 38 in 1954 and 59 in 1953.

The damages sought last year aggregated $21,838,707 as compared with $50,929,000, $61,329,750 in 1955, $55,349,000 in 1954 and the all-time astronomical high of $248,074,460 in 1953.

Number of cases settled out of court last year was 14, the figure as well for the preceding year. In 1955, 21 cases were settled. The 1954 total was a high 55, while the figure for 1953 was 19.

Four antitrust suits went to trial during the year, with defendants winning the decision in three, while a mistrial was declared by the court in the fourth case, when the jury deadlocked.

One antitrust suit was dismissed for lack of prosecution and eight were dismissed "with prejudice."

One action was withdrawn without prejudice.

In two actions, counter suits were docketed.

● ASIDE FROM antitrust suits in which exhibitors were the plaintiffs, there was one of unusual interest filed on Jan. 2 in Federal Court, Los Angeles. Republic Pictures and its film and TV producing subsidiaries, plaintiff, demands $6,000,000 damages from the American Federation of Musicians and its officers.

The action, pending at the year end, asks the Court to declare illegal previous agreements of Republic with the Federation that Republic would not, without prior consent of the AFM, license, release, sell, use or permit the use or exhibition of its motion pictures on or by television. Also sought is a court declaration that TV film labor and trust agreements are illegal.

Attacked in the complaint is the Federation's requirement that producers and distributors pay sums into a trust fund that is allegedly used for free musical performances and members generally and not for the one per cent of members in the motion picture industry or the lesser number employed by Republic.

● LEGAL-WISE, these were the other more important and significant developments of the year:

Paramount Pictures on Feb. 4 filed suit in Federal Court, Los Angeles, against NBC, charging infringement of copyright and unfair competition. Paramount alleged that "The City Girl," a NBC telepic produced in February, 1955, plagiarized a substantial part of its own 1954 feature, "The Country Girl."

On March 12, a Superior Court jury in Los Angeles found in effect that Chesapeake Industries and its former subsidiary, Eagle Lion Films, had failed to recognize possible profits of theatrical reissue of a picture on the strength of a new star name and had lost that value by the sale of the picture to television. The picture in question: "Port of New York"; the star, Yul Brynner. (See The Film Daily, March 13.)

The following day, The Film Daily reported from Washington that the U. S. Tax Court had upheld the purchase by Enterprise Prods., whose stock had been taken over by the Bank of America following default of some $7,000,000 in loans, of a profitable Cincinnati soap firm. The Tax Court ruled that Enterprise had a valid "business purpose," that of paying off the bank.

On March 26, Federal Judge Harold P. Burke, in Buffalo, imposed fines totaling $73,000 on the Schine interests following conviction on criminal contempt charges. The Government's contempt prosecution was an aftermath of the Dept. of Justice's civil antitrust action and a subsequent 1949 Federal Court order requiring the Schine interests to divest themselves of 39 theatres. (See The Film Daily for March 27.)

As April ended, 1,200 Coast musicians employed in the television film industry filed a $2,100,000 damage suit in Los Angeles Superior Court against the AFM, networks and producers.

In early June, exhibitors in the Philadelphia area filed an antitrust suit in that city charging that Paramount's plan for additional special playdates of "The Ten Commandments" constituted a violation of a decree in the Government's Paramount civil antitrust action.

● SAMUEL GOLDWYN'S long pending antitrust suit against 20th-Fox, et. al., finally went to trial in San Francisco Federal Court on July 10, but was still before the court as the year ended.

As October faded, a suit of $2,700,000 damages, filed by Essex Universal Corp., headed by Joseph Harris, against Herbert J. Yates, in New York Supreme Court, was transferred to New York Federal Court. Yates, on Nov. 17, in an answer to the Essex Universal complaint that he had failed to live up to a contract to sell Essex 566,233 shares of Republic stock, charged, "false and fraudulent" representations had been made.

Sidney Schwartz, a stockholder of List Industries, on Nov. 17 filed suit in the Delaware Court of Chancery seeking an order rescinding the sale of 140,000 shares of List common by David J. Greene, a director to the corporation at $9 a share.

Times Film Corp., of New York, on Dec. 11, filed a $100,000 damage action in Federal Court, Chicago, charging that Mayor Richard J. Daly and Police Commissioner Timothy J. O'Connor, had flaunted the U. S. Supreme Court decisions in banning "Nana."

Censorship: The Pros Defeated

● FOR THE FORCES of political censorship, 1957 again was a year of setbacks and outright defeats.

MPAA President Eric Johnston on Feb. 26 warned the company presidents that the industry faced its most serious censorship situation in years. It was an accurate appraisal, and the industry swiftly moved in counter offensive on both legislative and court levels.

The dangerous legislative threats were in Pennsylvania and Ohio where defeated censorship forces rallied for new attacks in January and February, respectively.

Both state legislatures adjourned in June, however, without enactment of the pending censorship legislation. (See The Film Daily for June 3, 24.)

In mid-August, Maryland's Board of Motion Picture Censors initiated a move for the enactment of a statute which would add "restricted" to its "approved" and "Censored" ratings. It failed.

On the municipal level, the Memphis Board of Censors was stirred to a fresh burst of activity that reminded of the troublesome reign of the late Lloyd T. Binford.

● A MUNICIPAL censorship threat in Jacksonville, Fla., ended when on Oct. 15 the City Council voted to withdraw two pending ordinances with an understanding that exhibitors there would delete from films anything construed as "lewd, obscene or tending to corrupt the morals of the young." Jacksonville exhibitors further agreed to advertise films with an adult theme as "adult entertainment" and "not recommended for children"

● THE SUPREME COURT of the United States again was concerned with film censorship in 1957, the case originating in Chicago where the Police Commissioner, Timothy J. O'Connor, had refused to license the exhibition of the French import, "Game of Love," distributed in this country by Times Film Corp. of New York. Chicago's police censor board held the picture to be obscene.

The High Court's order came on Nov. 12, but without memorandum opinion. It merely reversed the lower courts, citing as precedents its rulings in a series of censorship cases in 1956. While some felt that the Court finally had acted to knock out prior censorship of films, there was nothing concrete to bolster this.

For Times Film, it has been a two-year legal battle in Chicago, to exhibit the French film, based on a Colette novel, imported by William Shelton, who is also a company v.-p.

Police Commissioner O'Connor originally branded the film "not acceptable to standards of decency, with immorality featured and dialogue unfit." The city's mayor upheld the ban on the ground that the film was "immoral and obscene."

Subsequently, a Federal master-in-chancery found that Chicago's film-censorship ordinance was unconstitutional, and that, in any event, the film was not immoral and obscene.

However, U. S. Circuit Judge Joseph Sam Perry reversed the finding of his hearing officer after impaneling an advisory jury to sit and view the film with him. The U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals upheld Judge Perry. Finally, the high court reversed the lower courts.

● THE LOS ANGELES MUNICIPAL CODE banning the showing of any film "in such a manner as to offend public morals or decency," was ruled invalid by the Appellate Department of the California Superior Court in mid-February. The ruling was made in connection with a review of the conviction of Jack Thomas, distributor of a Swedish film, "Monika." The Appellate Department found that the Municipal Code section was "too lacking in definiteness to satisfy the requirements of due process."

On March 10, the Maryland Court of Appeals ordered the Maryland State Censors to reinstate scenes of naked Indians which had been deleted from "The Naked Amazon," a documentary, distributed by Times Film Corp.

On March 18, the Illinois Appellate Court ruled that "The Miracle" was not obscene and chided Chicago's police censors for so finding.

In early June, the Massachusetts Supreme Judicial Court reversed convictions in the "Garden of Eden" case, ruling that the picture was not obscene as a matter of law.

● ON JULY 7, the New York State Court of Appeals, by a 4 to 3 vote, affirmed a finding by the Appellate division of the Supreme Court that "Garden of Eden" was not indecent within the scope of the New York State Censorship statute. Later in the month the Appellate Division unanimously annulled a decision by the Board of Regents and directed that "Lady Chatterly's Lover" distributed by Kingsley-International, be licensed. In mid-November, the N. Y. State Education Dept. filed an appeal with the Court of Appeals.

● POPE PIUS on Sept. 11, in his 22nd Encyclical letter, entitled "Remarkable Technical Inventions" called for both moral and social censorship of movies, television and radio in warning of the dangers inherent if the media "are perverted by men to evil uses."

As September ended, the Illinois Supreme Court declined to rule on an American Civil Liberties Union petition charging that the Chicago Censor Board infringed on the right of free speech when in 1952 it refused to grant an exhibition permit for "The Miracle."

XI

Labor: A Long Look Ahead

● OUTSTANDING developments on the industry's labor front in 1957 were these:

1. The Screen Actors Guild on Nov. 17 disclosed long-range planning of proposals for a health, accident, welfare and pension plan to be presented two years' hence when contract negotiations are initiated with producers of theatrical and television films.

2. The National Council of the Writers Guild of America in early May designated all forms of subscription television as new fields insofar as use of literary material is concerned, and thus open to separate contract negotiations.

3. A split in the ranks of film labor on the touchy question of subscription television was brought into the open on June 11 when the Hollywood AFL Film Council unanimously adopted a resolution calling upon the FCC to authorize widespread public tests "at the earliest possible moment."

4. The Screen Directors International Guild came into existence in New York on Sept. 9 to represent approximately 300 film directors in the East, Midwest and Canada.

5. The American Federation of Musicians, meeting in convention in Denver in mid-June, referred to its Executive Council resolutions concerned with wage scales and working conditions in the film industry. Appearing before the convention, Richard F. Walsh of the IATSE and Jack Bright of AGVA gave pledges of unity. In the words of Walsh: "If the time ever comes when someone yells, 'Hey, Rube!' we'll all be there to fight together."

The final days of the convention saw the defeat of all of the more than a score of resolutions offered by Los Angeles Local 47, some of the members of which have taken action against the AFM in a controversy over the music trust funds now administered by a trustee representing the recording industries.

● OTHERWISE these are the stories which made the more important labor head lines during the year:

On Jan. 27 the Screen Writers branch of the Writers Guild of America, West, ratified a deal with Matty Fox comitting the latter to pay $235,-

WILLIAM F. BROIDY PICTURES CORP.

000 to the writers of some 82 RKO Radio pictures purchased for television by C & C Super Corp. from General Teleradio.

Two days later, it was announced that the IATSE had established a motion picture salesmen department for the enrollment of the Colosseum of Motion Picture Salesmen.

On March 7, it was announced that the Film Producers Association of New York had negotiated a new 3-year agreement with motion picture studio mechanics Local 52 IATSE with welfare and pension provisions included.

The IATSE on April 21 announced that a charter had been issued to the Society of Language Specialists as Local 867.

It was disclosed on May 6 that the National Council of the Writers Guild of America had designated all forms of subscription television as new fields insofar as use of literary material is concerned and thus subject to separate negotiations.

On the same day, it was announced that screen directors in the East had rejected affiliation terms offered by the Screen Directors Guild of America and had elected instead to establish their own organization. In early September, the Screen Directors International Guild was duly established in New York to represent approximataely 300 directors in the East, mid-West and Canada.

● THE SCREEN WRITERS branch of the Writers Guild of America, West, at a special meeting Oct. 1, unanimously approved a motion calling for a 3% assessment on all post-1948 theatrical films sold to television.

The California Supreme Court on Nov. 6 ruled that rebel musicians of AFL's Local 47 in Hollywood, were entitled to the appointment of a receiver for funds to be paid by major studios and record companies to the AFM Music Performance Trust Fund in New York.

On Dec. 9 the Writers Guild of America, West, proposed a flat 10% of the gross return from subscription television on all theatrical pictures produced prior to Sept. 2, 1957 and a sliding percentage on pictures produced thereafter for both theatre and toll TV.

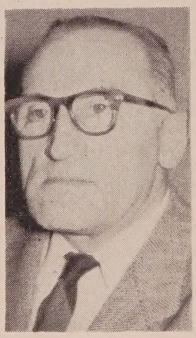
DISTRIBUTOR—EXHIBITOR RELATIONS

By LOUIS PELEGRINE
Staff Writer, THE FILM DAILY

WHILE DISTRIBUTION and exhibition went into no loving embrace in 1957, it cannot be denied that relations between these two branches of the industry showed perceptible improvement during the year.

Certainly there was considerable cause for friction between distribution and exhibition, but there was evidence of striving to achieve a better understanding of each other's problems. A new feeling of harmony that augured well for the future of distributor-exhibitor relations manifested itself.



PELEGRINE

The knowledge that they found themselves in the same troubled waters was generally conceded to have been a vital consideration in the creation of a friendlier climate in the field of distributor - exhibitor relations.

On the premise that all branches of the industry are interdependent, the cries for unity arose with greater insistence than ever before from both distribution and exhibition as result of a business situation affecting the one as badly as the other.

Special significance was attached to the fact that National Allied showed evidence indicating a softening in its militant attitude toward distribution. First evidence that the exhibitor organization was moving toward a more conciliatory attitude toward distribution came at its drive-in convention in Cincinnati early in the year. The conclave was marked by little violent criticism directed at the distribution end of the business. That was in strange contrast to the fire-and-brimstone attack against distribution which highlighted Allied conventions in the past.

Evidence that Allied was abandoning some of its militancy was strengthened when a statement the conciliatory tone of which was unmistakable was issued by President Julius M. Gordon at a trade press conference held in New York after the drive-in convention.

The year witnessed many informal talks between spokesmen for distribution and exhibition in a search for solutions to the problems facing the two branches of the industry. Solution of what President Ernest G. Stellings of Theatre Owners of America called "three prime problems" of the industry where product is concerned — "the quantity, the quality and the time schedule on which the product is released"—was discussed with all important heads in distribution, both privately and publicly. However, a call by National Allied for a formal, top-level industry conference in an effort to resolve the difficulties bedevilling the business met with failure.

The favorable response by the film companies to the demand of exhibition that pictures be released in an orderly fashion throughout the year contributed importantly to the enhancement of distributor-exhibitor relations.

The drive for an orderly release of product was spearheaded by American Broadcasting-Paramount Theatres. It led to pledges by 20th-Fox, Columbia, Universal and United Artists to spread the release of product over the year so that films would be available to exhibitors at all times to the benefit of their business. It also caused the companies to prepare release schedules for 1958 that promised to provide exhibitors with quality pictures for showing throughout the year.

How important the issue became may be gauged by the fact that TOA withheld voting for the implementation of the industry's business-building program until it received assurances that the companies would work for an orderly distribution of quality product all through the year.

The sale of theatrical feature films to television interests posed a serious problem in distributor-exhibitor relations in view of the calamitous effect on the boxoffice when the better of the pictures in the company backlogs hit the television screens. There was much agitation to get the companies to refrain from disposing of any more product to television.

Failing in their efforts to keep the films in the company backlogs from reaching the television screens, the exhibitors did the next best thing. They urged upon the companies that measures be taken to make the showing of motion pictures on TV "subject to reasonable clearance protection in favor of the theatres," to quote a resolution on the subject adopted by the Allied convention.

The exhibitors contended that something should be done to correct the widely-held public impression that a film currently in theatrical exhibition will be soon available for viewing on home TV so that there is no sense going to a theatre to see it.

The problems of the small theatres also figured strongly in distributor-exhibitor relations last year. The companies took cognizance of the difficulties of the little fellows by promising their cooperation in assisting them to remain in business. Some of the companies maintaining 50 per cent rental terms were reported by President Stellings of TOA to have told him they would be willing to negotiate flat rental deals to make it easier for small theatres. Some of the companies, notably 20th-Fox, placed themselves on record with statements that the theatres must be saved because the survival of the industry depends upon them.

Another step to promote distributor-exhibitor relations was taken when a new series of arbitration and conciliation talks was launched in the Spring. Efforts to evolve an arbitration plan satisfactory to both exhibition and distribution came to an impasse as a result of disagreement on the issues of clearance and availability.

Attempts to work out an arbitration plan were further handicapped by the objection of Allied to any system for the adjudication of disputes between exhibitors and distributors which failed to contain "a fair definition of waiting time," in the words of President Gordon.

Out of the arbitration and conciliation conferences there did come one development that represented a big gain in distributor-exhibitor relations. That was the adoption of a conciliation plan which was put into effect on Nov. 1.

Still another move that gave hope of creating more of a "togetherness" between distribution and exhibition was the formulation of the industry business-building campaign. The year saw ratification of the COMPO-TOA and MPAA promotion plans by the Joint Business-Building Committee. TOA, which was responsible for fathering the business-building program at a meeting in Chicago in 1956, gave its approval to the project without reservations. It was not until February of this year that Allied, along with the Independent Theatre Owners Association of New York and the Metropolitan Motion Picture Theatres Association, approved the campaign and the financing entailed.

There was much argument during the year on the number of pictures made available to exhibitors by the film companies. Exhibitors insisted that more pictures be turned out to satisfy the theatres' need for prodcct. This brought promises of expanded production schedules.

No less at issue was the question of print shortages. Exhibitors claimed that the dearth of prints held up film engagements and played hob with their programming plans to their financial detriment. The release of films by zones under a stagger system was proposed at Allied's annual convention as one means of solving the problem. TOA came out in support of the idea. The companies failed to act on the suggestion.

From the ranks of exhibition arose considerable outcry against what Irving Dollinger, chairman of the Emergency Defense Committee of Allied, termed "the complete destruction of clearance by the alleged shortage of prints and the increase of prior-run clearance."

The problem of extended engagements and their effect on subsequent runs was another subject that caused dispute between exhibition and distribution.

The year was marked by dissension over film rentals. Complaints that terms on many pictures were out of line were registered by exhibitors. The charge was raised that distributors were placing such a high price on some of their pictures as to make it difficult for the exhibitor to show them profitably.

A united exhibitor front in opposition to producer-distributor mergers was established last year on the contention that they tended to cut down competition in film sales to the disadvantage of theatre men. It was feared that such mergers would only reduce still more the number of pictures available to exhibitors.

The year produced evidence that exhibitors and film companies did not see eye to eye on the issue of production and distribution of pictures by the divorced circuits. The theatre men urged the Department of Justice to grant the former affiliates approval to make and distribute pictures so that exhibitors' product needs might be more easily satisfied.

Much good will was engendered in the ranks of exhibition by the action of the industry in taking over sponsorship of the telecast of the Academy Awards ceremonies. Exhibitors felt that the move would serve to benefit business.

Demands were made upon the film makers to turn out more family pictures on the argument that such attractions are a boon to theatre business. The production of more color films and the development of new personalities by the studios were urged by exhibitors as other means of improving grosses.

FILM FESTIVALS

By JAMES MAUCERI

Staff Writer, THE FILM DAILY

FINALLY, after a half-century as a world leader in the motion picture arts, the United States has its own International Film Festival.

A lean gentleman from San Francisco, who brandishes a fiery brush of a mustache, hungry for the honor, snared it, in 1957, simply by holding a Golden Gate festival.

MAUCERI

For his second annual American fete, this Fall, Irving M. Levin, managing director of San Francisco Theatres, Inc., and co-ordinator of the fete, has the official recognition of the International Federation of Film Producers Associations (IFFPA).

Levin invited 14 nations to submit films to the Dec. 4-17 fete, held in his 1,000-seat Metro Theatre. Daily, a block of 750 seats were sold, at $1.50 each, to offset the estimated $15,000 cost. The San Francisco Art Commission sponsored the 1957 event.

A jury of five drama/film critics declared the following "Golden Gate Awards": Best picture and direction, to India's "Pather Pancheli," and its director, Satyajit Ray; best actress, to Dolores Dorn-Heft, in the U.S. entry, made in New York, Franchot Tone's "Uncle Vanya"; best actor, to Heinz Ruhmann, in the West German film, "The Captain of Koepenik."

Of course, the major fete wheel remains in Continental Europe, where tradition has developed a crusty patina of flickering and bickering.

France, as usual, opened the 1957 fete season, on the Cote d'Azur, with its X Annual Festival, May 2-17. Twenty-three nations entered 30 feature films in competition. More than 500 "critics" attended screenings at the 1,569-seat Festival Palace.

America, which had sent three entries and one out-of-competition film, won top honor with the "Golden Palm" best-feature award going to William Wyler's "Friendly Persuasion," for Allied Artists.

Best-actor award went to John Kitzmiller, an American Negro, for his role in the Yugoslav film, "The Valley of Peace." Guilietta Masina took best-actress laurels for her role in the Italian-made "La Nuit de Caberia."

Robert Bresson was cited the best director for the French film, "A Condemned Man Escapes." The Russian production, "The Forty-First," took best-scenario honors.

The Japanese "The Roof of Japan" and the Danish "Quivitok" tied for best documentary. Sweden's "The Seventh Veil" and Poland's "Kanal" won special awards. India's "Goutama le Buddha" got special mention for its moral beauty and aesthetic qualities.

West Germany held her VII Annual Berlin Festival, June 21-July 2, screening 100 films from 42 nations, including 31 features, nine feature-length documentaries, and 60 short documentaries.

United States winners were: Golden Bear, to Henry Fonda's "12 Angry Men," a United Artists feature; Golden Bear, to Walt Disney's "Secrets of Life," full-length documentary. A third Golden Bear went to Italy's "Far Off People," a short documentary.

Silver Bears, for short documentaries, went to Italy's "The Last Paradise," Belgium's "Jazz Cellar," Germany's "One Thousand Small Characters," and Yugoslavia's film on the Plitvice lakes.

Silver Bears also went to Mario Monicelli, for best direction, for Italy's "Fathers and Sons"; to the late Pedro Infante, as best actor, in the Mexican "Tizoc"; to Yvonne Mitchell, as best actress, in the English film, "Woman in a Dressing Gown"; and as a special feature award to Spain's "Whom the Lord Forgives."

The International Catholic Film Office, at the Berlin fete, awarded its annual prize, an antique bronze lamp, to "12 Angry Men," adding another to its foreign honors.

Italy's 18th annual Venice Festival, August 25-September 8, drew 14 official entries, from 10 nations. The U.S. budget, MPEA provided, was $9,500, for her two entries.

India's "Aparajito," directed by Satyajit Ray, won the Gold Lion of St. Mark, the first award for best picture to be made in three years.

Count Volpi de Misurata Cups went to Anthony Franciosa, as best actor, in 20th-Fox's "A Hatful of Rain," and to Russian actress Zidra Ritenbergs for her role in the Soviet "Malva."

A Silver Lion went to Italy's "Notti Bianche," directed by Luchino Visconti, as second best film of 1957.

Other awards presented at Venice included the International Film Office trophy and the International Cinema Press Federation Pasinetti trophy, both to "A Hatful of Rain," as the best picture.

The Giorgio Cini Foundation's St. George statuette went to M-G-M's "Something of Value," for its "human values." American actress Esther Williams was named the most co-operative performer attending the Venice festival.

Edinburgh, Scotland, holding its 11th annual fete, August 17-September 8, attracted 37,357 visitors. Some 37 nations and the United Nations submitted 300 features and documentaries, including 39 feature films.

Winners of the 8th annual series of David O. Selznick Golden Laurel awards, given to non-American-made films that promote international understanding, were:

Golden Laurel Award went to the French film, "If All the Guys in the World," directed by Christian-Jaque and produced by Alexandre Mnouchkine.

Golden Laurel Trophy went to Rene Clair, French director-producer, in recognition for his film contributions and high artistic standards.

Golden Laurel Medals went to the five other award nominees—Italy's "La Strada" and "The Gold of Naples"; Japan's "Harp of Burma"; Germany's "The Devil's General"; and India's "Pather Pancheli."

A French featurette, "The Red Balloon," received a special award. Robert Bresson, for his "A Condemned Man Escapes," unanimously was named winner of the 1955 Richard Winnington Award, commemorating the late film critic.

Those were the major film festivals. Behind the Iron Curtain, Karlovy Vary held its 10th annual event last July. Authorities, who were supposed to cut the number of awards from 25 to four, gave out 15 anyway, or practically something for everyone who showed up. America got a special diploma for the Rembrandt Films short, "A Dancer's World."

The Grand Prix went to India's "Jagte Raho" ("Under Cover of Night"); special jury prize went to the Chinese "New Year's Sacrifice"; and three other top awards went to "Hannibal Tunar Ur" ("Prof. Hannibal"), the Soviet "Bbicota" ("High Up"), and East Germany's "Lissy."

Acting awards went to France's Yves Montand for his role in "The Witches of Salem"; to the Bulgar actress S. Arnaud for her role in the Bulgar-Russo film, "Urok Istoriji" ("In the Face of the World"). Best direction award was shared by Andrej Munk for the Polish "The Man on the Rails" and Vladimir Pogacic for the Yugoslav "The Big and the Small."

Shorts prizes went to the French "Night and Fog" and to the Russian "Geysers and Volcanos."

For 1958, the Administrative Council of the IFFPA, having received about 17 applications for festival approval, has set three classifications: Recommended, Recognized, and Disapproved. Members will be urged to participate in fetes in the first, be free to support them in the second.

Recommended, at press time, were Cannes, May 2-18; Berlin, June 27-July 8; and Venice, August 25-September 17.

Recognized fetes included: Mannheim, Germany, May 12-17; Brussels, May 13-June 13; Stratford, Canada, July 8-20; Karlovy Vary, July 12-27; San Sebastian, Spain, July 19-29; Vancouver, Canada, July 20-August 3; Edinburgh, August 24-September 14; Leningrad, Russia, September 22-October 5; and San Francisco, London, and Melbourne, Australia, where dates were not yet set.

Proposed fetes still pending before the IFFPA included Locarno, Switzerland, July 26-August 10; and Karachi, Pakistan, in late 1958.

The Motion Picture Export Association of America, which had agreed to participate jointly, with members, at Cannes, Berlin, and Brussels, was to consider Venice, too. With the MPEA's lifting of the 30-month embargo on U.S. film exports to Spain, the MPAA will enter two American features at the San Sebastian fete. Members were free to participate, individually, at various other IFFPA-listed fetes.

Cannes, whose budget will be increased to about $210,000, compared with $125,000 in the past, will limit entries to one per country, apart from invited films. Berlin, too, will limit official entries to one feature and two shorts per nation, and invited films to a total of eight, including two from any one country.

At the Brussels World Fair, the Belgian Film Library will sponsor three film festivals: short subjects, May 20-27; feature films, May 30-June 13; and experimental films, April 21-25. More than 40 nations were expected to enter. Two theatres, one seating 2,000 persons, the other, 500, will be used.

Apart from the competitions, the 1,100-seat U.S. National Theatre, on the American Pavillion grounds, will screen, free, a Cavalcade of (16) Great American Films, dating from 1902 to 1952. In addition, an all-aluminum 1,200-seat theatre will be privately built on the fair grounds to show one-hour versions of Cinerama films, at a $2 admission charge.

To square the circle, Walt Disney will present "Circarama, U.S.A.," in a special theatre, using 11 projectors to flash the 360-degree film on a circular wall seven feet high and 142 feet in circumference.

IN 1776, fifty-six Americans risked the gallows by signing a declaration that was printed and dispatched throughout the nation they had created with their penstrokes. When a man sets his signature to a document, it is his personal bond. When an advertiser sets his name to a printed message he stands directly behind it. That is why people have confidence in printed advertising. It is also the reason why an advertiser carefully selects the publication media he desires to reflect the integrity of his name and his product.

In The BEGINNING

There Was ENTERTAINMENT

Who had a sixth sense?

Who increased or killed a laugh?

Who was the assassin of "Rigor Boredom"?

Who was trained in building "Film Suspense"?

Who has been likened to a film architect or engineer?

Who assembled the picture with beauty, grace and precision?

Who was well acquainted with "face-on-the-cutting-room-floor"?

Who selected, shortened; lengthened and blended the whole into entertainment?
